

Stack is used in everyday applications, like

- checking expressions
- browser history
- undo and redo functions
- and matching brackets.

In this program we put opening brackets into the stack.

When we see a closing bracket we take out the bracket and check it.

If both brackets are a match then the expression is correct.

If they do not match then the expression is not correct.